

Reflections from Didi Romania 2010

This past April, while in Romania for the fourth consecutive year, I had the time of my life and several unforgettable experiences (including my 15th birthday). One in particular occurred at the Găvojdia placement center with a sweet little girl named Andreea. I had met Andreea during previous trips, but I had never been able to build a relationship with her because my other little friends, Maria and Naomi, preoccupied my mind and time. This trip was during spring break and Maria and Naomi were away with a family member, so I was able to give all my attention to little Andreea. Andi, as she allowed me to call her, accepted Jesus into her inimă (heart) on that Wednesday, even though her friends were teasing and taunting her. Despite their behavior, she wasn't discouraged and even attempted to share her new faith with her friend, also named Andrea. The next day after Vacation Bible School (VBS) she gladly accepted a new Bible (covered in ponies and hearts and other Saddle-Ridge-Ranch VBS stickers). I can't wait to see her again next year to find out how she has grown spiritually, and I'm eagerly anticipating seeing her adorable, freckled face again.
